ARE PROFS "NUTS"?

Perhaps we are plunging ourselves into a seething caldron when we attempt to boil out a pertinent answer to this impertinent question: Are college professors "nuts"? But, because this charge has been made, we feel justified in presenting student opinion on the matter. It is also hoped that by this means we may reawaken the interest, which appears to be dozing, of the faculty in our editorial columns.

First, we must determine whether we, whose association with our teachers is only in the classroom at infrequent periods, are qualified to sit in judgment on the case before us. A judge should be impartial, unprejudiced, honest; he should know and understand all facts pertaining to both sides. Certainly we are not fitted to criticize any man's private life, and therefore we confine our observations to evidence in the classrooms alone, which may or may not absolve our professors of the charge.

Professors are listed according to their eccentricities, as: the slave-driver, who tries to force learning upon us; the altruist, whose honeyed attitude of idealism is a trifle too sweet; the wit, who thrusts his little spear at the slightest provocation; the reminiscer, that gentleman who glories in recounting his boyhood pranks; the mildewed Romeo, whose feeble fatherly flattery falls on foolish flappers.

Then there is the prof who is burdened by wisdom; the crooner, whose sing-song monotonous produce slumberous results; the temperamental satellite, that individual who flashes brilliantly but not consistently; the cynic, for whom everything and everybody is meat for his chopper; the model, from whom we learn just how the wrong things should be done correctly; the egotist, who by example teaches us not to brag about ourselves; and, of course, there is that lovable old fellow, the absent-minded professor.

Certain of our instructors have been accused of dwelling to excess upon their own particular subject, without variance; others are likewise censured for presenting scraps of information concerning every possible topic. A few of them have been called "sissies," while several are rated as tyrants; many attempt to be domineering and a small number succeed. There are on this campus dapper dandies but for the most part our teachers remain entirely inconspicuous in their dress.

Taken all in all, our professors are a queer lot but they have deserved that privilege; what would a teacher be like without those peculiarities behind his spectacles? Would we students feel at ease in a classroom over which a faultless pedagogue held sway? No; so with all their singular traits, guiltily as they may be of the charges placed against them, we hereby dismiss the defendants in the case.

NEEDED REVISION

As do the majority of the universities and colleges throughout the nation, the University of Kentucky boasts of having a mens' glee club. It is extremely regretful to be compelled to state, however, that the University glee club is little known among the people of the commonwealth, and even to students of the University itself.

The trouble lies mostly in the organization and supervision of the musical organization itself. There are no requirements necessary to become a member of the group. So long as the candidate is able to carry a tune and sing a scale, he is allowed to enlist in the ranks of those who should be the key men in bringing about closer alumni associations and the establishment of goodwill and prominence of the University throughout the commonwealth and surrounding states.

With such an untalented personnel, it takes the director double the usual amount of time to instill even mediocre interpretations of choral renditions the average glee club patron likes to hear. What is to be done about it?

First, a strict set of entrance rules must be made; no glee club in the country that is prominent today does not operate minus rigid rules for entrance. Second, the job as director should be given to some competent individual who is not excessively burdened with the maintenance of so large a portion of the music department. Professor Lampert has done the best to be expected under the circumstances. He has worked as hard with the glee club as his other duties would allow. Combine the fact that he is busy with other duties along with the fact that he is working with a little experienced group of young men regarding vocal, or even instrumental training, and we readily see that we are expecting the impossible.

With the somewhat meager backing given the Men's Glee club the University, and with little responsibility of its being increased in the near future, only part of the needed revision can be brought about immediately. Men petitioning for membership in the club should be required to have had at least two years of some musical training. Upon giving the audition, a committee composed of the three ranking members of the music department, or of local vocal teachers should be called upon to decide the capabilities of the candidate to function in the glee club.

The University of Kentucky is in dire need of means to spread good will and advertisement among the people of the state. They have shown this interest in such maneuvers by the establishment of the Committee of 240. Why not conscientiously and intelligently revise the Men's Glee club? It is here that one will find the most powerful advertising medium and conveyance of good will if maintained and supported in the proper manner.

INDIA'S INDEPENDENCE

Bringing to a close the most exhaustive examination of proposed constitutional changes ever undertaken by the British Empire, the joint parliamentary committee on Indian reforms advocated an all-Indian federation comprised of self-governing units in its report made public Wednesday.

The report advocates but a few of the many reforms that the leaders of India maintain are essential for self-government. It is virtual self rule with "safe guards." This is, in other words, still reserving control by the Viceroy over such vital questions as defense, and external relations. The Viceroy in turn is directly responsible to the British Empire.

While the reforms that are advocated in the report are the bare essentials of the demands of the Indians, it appears that the best thing for the present is to accept them. India is unfitted economically to battle England any longer for complete self-government.

The "Eastern Question" of the last hundred years is not settled but will come closer to solution if India will accept these changes and continue its verbal battle for more later.

STUDENT OPINION

Dear Editor:

I read your editorial on World Peace. May I express my views toward war.

When Bill (which I call myself) bade entrance to this U. of K., he was told with exactness and somewhat gruffness that Military would be taken or else.

When Bill asked why, he was given another gruff disguised as a response.

Bill is the average college student who is striving to learn the whereabouts and wherefore of various things.

Bill can see no reason why he should be compelled to take Military except that he must prepare himself to defend the financial interests of the United States in foreign countries.

Bill realizes that Jonnie Dee, Ann D. Mellon, and a few others would suffer great financial losses should the United States' financial interest in foreign countries be tampered with. So on, on, to war. Let the motto be, "Oil in every home; aluminum in every kitchen."

Bill regrets that he cares not whether oil gets in every home or aluminum in every kitchen. So at next semester's registration if you see some one dressed in typical Quaker fashion, it will be Bill. If you stand close enough you will hear him say, "I will continue studies at the U. of K. without benefit (?) of Military or else."

Sincerely,
L. W.

P. S.—Why not conduct a poll of the students of the U. of K. Get their opinion of war and peace.

JEST AMONG US

Consider the sad plight of the student who, minus hat and coat, dashed from McVey hall to Frazee hall in the downpour of rain, arriving drenched and exhausted—to find on the blackboard "CLASS DISMISSED!"

Gangsters, bootleggers, gunmen, robbers, politicians, all have a chance at redemption—but how about the chronic crooner?

We wondered what had been its fate so now we are delighted to hear that the Student Union building campaign is once more being revived.

Too bad the football team cannot accept Centre's kind invitation to watch them beat Mercer; our boys could pick up some valuable pointers on how the game should be played.

SCANDAL SNICKERINGS

By MARTHA BITTNER and DON MCGURK

Our erstwhile friend Girdler has deserted us for all the weeks to come; so we have condescended to do our share in aiding Cameron, and with the help of the whole student body we have gathered some so-called dirt. Here 'Tis.

Mary Lally and Georgia Valentine Turnipseed, the perpetual pledges, were given a key by the Maxwell street lodge last Thursday night. They were seen in the Phi Delta annex talking with their hands and making signs to Kay Bill Smith and Delt Johnny Staples because they were on silence—we like them on silence, especially Turnipseed.

ATO Bill Heady Heath says he will graduate with the present freshman class if he passes in everything.

Kappa Ida Greenleaf says she hasn't met one intelligent person since entering school. Speaks well for your sisters, Ida! Might I add that Bill Gottshall's newest is this sophisticated Vassarite.

Looks like Phi Delt Joe Scholtz's bubbles are bursting, namely: Ann Cooper and Mary Thurber of Louisville and least of all Kappa Sarah Slack.

Chio Alice Guerrant's father told Phi Delt Charlie Barr that he had a shotgun that had been handed down in the family from wedding to wedding. Methinks that Erwin Faber will get it in the end.

Delt Jack McConnell's family have met Tri Delt Margaret Humchanges made according to Jack. Plans are being made by the family of Anchorage to meet Kappa Jane Henderson. Luck to you, Jane!

News Bulletin

Helen Rich says Patterson hall doesn't need a newspaper as long as she's there.

Hospital Blues

At the hospital Friday night while sister Polly was being sewed up after the wreck, Brother Bill Dawson was heard singing "Lost in a Fog." There's no stopping Polly on the first floor and Lou Hennehan on the third. So Polly designated Jean Nagel as the little messenger of sunshine. As a result Jean is looking a bit peaked and has lost quite a bit of weight. By the way, Jean was all agog when she got long distance call from Ed Johnson in Hazard.

Could Frank LeBus be trying to beat Jake Finley's time with Mary Andrews Persons? Frank and his attractive date were billing and cooing like love birds at the dance Saturday night.

Kappa Edith Reager was so excited the other night when she had a date with Sig Alf George Tullock that when leaving the house for the show she forgot her hat and coat. I'll bet she had her pocketbook. Some power, George!

Tommy Nichols has lately received the name of BROTHER Preston. The Tri Delt's can't decide whether to hold a special initiation for him or to wait until all the other cute little gals are taken into the sisterhood.

Blair Ratliff gave Mary Lally a cigarette case and a ring—the occasion being Lally's initiation into KKG. Here's a hint, Lon, Lally loves gifts. Maybe something like this would help your case.

The best bet of the year, meaning Orey LeBus, has gone to college on us—too bad, he was a nice chap.

Franklin Dryden is losing ground on the University campus because a little gal from Paris has him "hooked." His pal, Billy Blake, told this, so it must be true.

Dudley Murphy, Phi Sig, called up two Chios Tuesday night and handed each one the same line. Incidentally, the girls are room mates and it was plenty tough on Dud.

The touchdown twins, Hay and Johnson, called alternately on Scotty Chambers when she was ill this week. Running mates of the football team, brothers in the Sig Alf fraternity, and partners in love. What a combination.

Surprise!

Kentucky's rugged 200-pound tackle sleeps in frilly blue silk pajamas. Yes, it is none other than Wagner.

Tri Delt Kitty Hunter is the proud possessor of Bill Lowry's Pi Kapp pin. Congrats, Bill!

Joe Huddleston has the pictures of seven girls in his room. Can any one guess who they are? Some say they are all one and the same girl, but of course we can't commit ourselves.

The flowers in the Alpha Gam garden have faded and gone, but Miles Hardin and Katy Gover still claim that for their favorite courting spot. Some of these nights have been awfully cold too!

Bob Heidrick was put to no little inconvenience after the dance because he lost the key to his room. It seems he had to climb in through the window and that said window fell on his neck before he could hoist his body through the opening.

Kentucky's own answer to a maiden's prayer, (Doug Parrish) had a date with Lois Lilly last week. Somewhere outside of Athens, Doug's wonder car broke down and after great deliberation and delay they were forced to drive home without lights. Lois was indignant and Doug is under a cloud of suspicion. Could it have been a trick?

The theme song at the Phi Delt house this week is "Frankie and Johnny".... (Frank LeBus has been buying all the turpentine in town.)

Will Louise Johnson desert her friends for the warmer clime again this winter? K. M. I. has its winter quarters there and also there are three "Bond" salesmen.

Mr. Whit "Pan Hellenic" Goodwin's latest is Kappa pleb Midge Wheeler. But 'tis said he can't do any good on account of his shady past with many other femmes. Midge's latest is SAE Gene Bryant.

Kidnaper Is Given Tests by Dimmick

University Professor Decides 18-year-old Girl of Normal Intelligence

According to Dr. D. D. Dimmick, Beulah Winchester, 19-year-old alleged kidnaper of little Jackie Gibbons, is of normal intelligence considering her opportunities and privileges.

Doctor Dimmick of the Junior League child-guidance service and the University Psychology department said after a preliminary examination and interview, "that it seems probable that the intellectual status of Beulah Winchester is average considering her limited opportunities and privileges."

"Consideration of the fact that she probably has never enjoyed the privileges and rights which a home and public school environment provide should be stressed," Doctor Dimmick said, and "the lack of opportunity for social training seems to be an important factor in an understanding of her conduct. At the request of the proper authorities the child-guidance service expects to continue a study of this girl."

Pershing Rifles To Conduct Drill

The local chapter of Pershing Rifles, national honorary basic military fraternity, is to conduct an individual competitive drill contest among the 50 prospective pledges selected from the freshmen military classes by the staff instructors about a month ago.

The freshmen have had three hours of instruction a week since called out, and a close contest is expected.

Prizes are offered for the winner and two runners-up. The contest is to be used as a partial basis for the first cut, which is expected to take place around Thanksgiving.

We appreciate the aid given The Kernel in this respect and hope that she will assist us still further in the future.

Reininger, and Lucy Jean Anderson, to Knoxville, Thanksgiving day for the Kentucky-Tennessee football game. This was deemed advisable due to the large number of students from the University who have signified their intentions to attend the game.

It also was decided to send as representatives in the annual "Beer-Keg" ceremony, Virginia Robinson and Sam Warren. These representatives will act in the official capacity of receiving the beer keg if it is won by the University this year.

After each Kentucky-Tennessee football game, the winning team keeps the keg, with the scores of all former games between these two schools recorded on it, until the opposing team defeats them. Tennessee has had the keg in their possession for the last five years.

FROSH CAGEMEN REPORT FOR PRACTICE

About 65 candidates for the freshman basketball team reported to Coaches Paul McBrayer and Frank Mosely at the first practice of the year held Monday night in Alumni gym.

After the first workout, the aspirants were divided into two sections. Coach McBrayer will handle one group and Coach Mosely will have charge of the other. No games have been arranged for the freshmen, but the drills will continue nightly until the squad is cut. The only work so far has been on proper handling of the ball and passing.

Varsity practice has been advanced to four days a week and most of the team is rounding rapidly into condition for the opening game of the season on December 4, against the Alumni team.

Co-captain Jack Tucker is the only member of the squad on the injured list. During one of the scrimmages, he broke a blood vessel in his foot, which may keep him out of the early games. Coach Rupp is still undecided as to his regular line-up and probably will not cut the squad until after the first two or three games.

INTRAMURAL

With competition in three intramural sports rapidly drawing towards a climax, interest is at the highest peak of the fall season, according to C. W. Hackensmith, Intramural director.

In the first division of the volleyball tournament, the Sigma Chi and SAE's are running neck and neck. Both of these teams are undefeated, and since they meet each other tonight at the Gym annex, one of the best battles of the tournament is expected. In Division 2, the Alpha Gamma Rho's are in the lead, while the Triangles have the best record in the third division.

The ping-pong tournament, singles and doubles, which was inaugurated this year, and which attracted over one hundred entries in the singles alone, is progressing through the third round. Fred Bringardner, Sigma Chi, has turned back several opponents who were conceded an excellent chance to win. Among the vanquished are Bobby Evans, SAE, and John R. Harkless, Sigma Nu. The Harkless-Bringardner match lasted three and a half hours.

Boxing and wrestling contestants must check weights before Saturday noon. It has been announced, and they are urged to get their work-outs off in a hurry.

Handball singles started yesterday with a good field entered.

NO MORE ENERGY ?...

GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

TOBACCO EXPERTS ALL SAY:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

EDWARD KENT, '36—GEOLOGY STUDENT.

Edward Kent knows the value of a full reserve of natural, vibrant energy. And that's one of the reasons why he sticks to Camels. In his own words: "It takes a lot of hard work to acquire any thorough knowledge of geology—and a lot of energy. It's tiring at times, but like most of the fellows around here, I have found that smoking a Camel cheers me up...chases away all fatigue...gives me that 'lift' in mental alertness and physical well-being which I need to be able to go on working with renewed energy."
